

Luke J. Wilson / L.J. Wilson

Luke J. Wilson is a British author and theologian based in Devon. He holds a BA (Hons) in Biblical Studies and Theology from the University of Wales, with further study at Yale, the University of Barcelona and Emory University, and has spent more than seven years studying the Early Church Fathers on his own.

Under his own name he writes accessible non-fiction about Christianity, Church history and the early Christian tradition, published through Chronically Academic and Chronically Faithful. As L.J. Wilson he writes supernatural fiction, horror and stories with a taste for the strange, published through Chronically Fictional.

Books

What Really Happened at Nicaea?

Myth, History, and the Council That Shaped Christianity.
Chronically Academic.

40 Days with the Fathers

A Journey Through Church History. First published 2017;
third edition January 2022, with a foreword by Paul Pavao.
Chronically Academic.

40 Days with the Fathers: Companion Texts

2019. Chronically Academic.

Heart Soul Mind Strength

The Greatest Commandment. Chronically Faithful.

Before the Pumpkins

The Martyrs Who Sanctified the Night. Chronically Faithful.

The Three

Short story, 2011; reissued 2022. Chronically Fictional.

The Debt Collector

Psychological thriller. Coming soon. Chronically Fictional.

How to credit

Non-fiction: Luke J. Wilson

Fiction: L.J. Wilson

Publisher: Chronically Writing Publishing House

Both names are the same author, and you are welcome to say so.

Research

The origins and meaning of the word “catholic” in early Christianity

Luke J. Wilson, Academia Letters, 2021. DOI:
10.20935/AL2046

Interviews

This Now podcast April 2022

Ruah Space July 2022

T.E. Price July 2022

Online

The Sacred Faith Theology blog, since 2013
thesacredfaith.co.uk

Patristics.info English translations of Early Church Fathers texts, maps and timelines
patristics.info
